

Disclaimer of Liability

The contents, in whole or in part, can not be edited, published, disseminated, reproduced by any technical means, and can not be downloaded or copied without previous authorization.

Authorization is also necessary in order to transform, modified, adapted or extracted the contents of this platform, in whole or in part, for other uses.

Those responsible for the platform cannot be held liable for lack of truth, incorrect information, inaccuracy, errors and inconsistencies that may be found in the contents of this portal, even though it shall make every effort to correct them, when detected. Likewise, we cannot be held liable for lack of truth, incorrect information, inaccuracy errors and inconsistencies that may be found in contents of other portals or websites, and over which we do not have any control, where the hypertext links refer to, also known as hyperlinks or links.

We commit to adopting technical and administrative measures that are appropriate to the protection of personal data and not to disclosing to third parties information on personal data of its users, nor information of its accesses, except otherwise required by Law.

Users give permission to the creation of usage statistics and connection registrations. These data may be used in administrative and statistical processes, as well as made available to third parties as long as in a non personal manner. Users' personal data cannot be disclosed to external entities.

By acceding and using this platform, the user declares to be aware of and accept the previously mentioned usage terms and conditions